

The Equalizer is used to simulate the absorption and enhancement of the energy of different frequencies on the surface of the reflective medium during the sound reflection process. It is used to simulate more realistic sound reflection.